MESSAGE BY PRESIDENT OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Today is the twenty-fourth anniversary of the United Nations. The mood it brings is surely more sombre now than it was 24 years ago, when the world must have seen the new Organization as the realization of all its hopes.

Approaching the quarter of a century of its existence, an objective appraisal of this august body must mention not only its accomplishments but must also recognize the existence of a crisis of war which, in localised form, touches every continent of the earth, and the seeming decline of influence and effectiveness in the eyes of public opinion. Mention of such a crisis is intended not as a destructive but a constructive criticism — with a view to arousing the consciousness of Member States for a rededication to the application of the principles and objectives of the Charter of the United Nations.

There is still war, and poverty, and suppression of human rights. However, the last twenty-four years have been survived without a major

True, it is early, but if mailed early, Christmas greeting cards can represent much less expense. The Force has prepared a Christmas card representative of the international composition of the Force and its task. They are now available — 40 mils each. They can also be obtained in bulk at 35 mils per card plus envelope (bulk purchase at 100 or more) from Personnel officer HQ Administration. Also obtainable at 40 mils each through HQ Canteen.

SECRETARY GENERAL'S UNITED NATIONS DAY MESSAGE

Birthdays usually are happy occasions. But, in all good conscience, I cannot say that this twenty-fourth anniversary of the United Nations is entirely a happy one.

It is true, of course, that over the past two dozen years, the organized international community has accomplished much. It has tackled many urgent political, economic, social humanitarian problems. It has shown that, given the support it requires, international action can and does succeed.

But it also must be said that we have not done nearly enough to reach the goals solemnly proclaimed 24 years ago: universal peace, prosperity, social justice — a life worth living for every human being.

The need for international action to bring these goals to fruition is at least as urgent now as it was in 1945.

We only have to look around us. The scourge of war is still with us. The armaments race continues under its own mad momentum. Human rights are being flagrantly violated in southern Africa and in many other parts of the world. Most of the people in the world still do not have enough to eat. There is poverty that can be alleviated. There is disease that can be prevented. There is ignorance that can be reme-fishness, complacency and indifference when it comes to meeting the great challenges that we face here on earth.

Above all, Governments seem to find it increasingly easy to disregard the voice of the international community, in spite of their solemn undertakings

Thus, a profound malaise characterizes the human situation today. In fact, the current youth unrest is in many respects but a reaction to this deplorable and steadily worse-died. There is plain misery, unnecessarily marring the lives of so many of our fellow human beings. And now the very environment which must sustain a growing world population is becoming increasingly polluted.

I am very much afraid that, although we have been able to reach the moon, we often show incredibly short-sighted selning state of affairs.

To help reverse this ominous trend, to help stop the drift to possible disaster in the years ahead, is the overriding duty of every citizen of this world. We are, after all, members of the same human race and we share the same fate, no matter who or where we are.

FORCE COMMANDER'S MESSAGE

On this 24th anniversary of the entry into force of the United Nations Charter, I wish to express to all officers, NCOs and soldiers composing the United Nations Force in Cyprus my appreciation and thanks for the dedication with which they accomplish the task laid down by the United Nations Security Council.

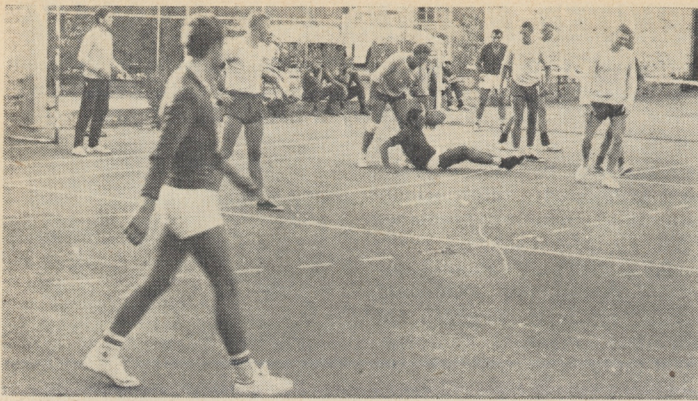

May I express the fervent hope that the efforts made by all contingents will bear fruit so that the beautiful island in which they serve and which we have come to love may be the haven for peace for

FINALEHÅNDBOLDKAMP

... mellem Charlie og Stabskompagniet paa banen ved Nicosia Club. Det blev en haard og jævnbyrdig dyst, med virkelig god haandbold indimellem - og med internationalt temperament og gaa-paa-stil. Og udfald imod dommeren, som klarede en del vanskelige skær ved bestemt optræden. Holdene fulgtes ad op til 15 maal - saa "gik" Charlie og resultatet af haandboldturneringen ved DANCON XI blev: 19-15 til Charlie.

■ Megafonen blev brugt flittigt under kampen.

■ Fungerende Commander, MAJ K.K. Juhl, uddelte medaljerne til de to finalehold sammen med sportsofficeren, LT Andresen.

■ ... saa ved man hvorfor tandlægen cykler.

NB! NB! NB!

Blandt de mange positive ting, der følger med at være tjenestegørende paa Cypern, er de billige drinks. Det er helt naturligt at man nyder det, og at det danner grundlag for mangt et festligt lag. Men desværre er det erfaringsmæssigt ogsaa inden for dette omraade de fleste straffe falder.

1. Bland aldrig tjeneste og alkohol sammen. Man maa i denne forbindelse have i tankerne, hvornaar man næste gang skal stille til tjeneste.
2. Motorkørsel og alkohol er, som alle ved, heller ikke nogen god kombination. Ikke destomindre har næsten hvert DANCON-hold haft straffe inden for dette omraade.
3. Det er altid betryggende, at være flere sammen naar man gaar ud og morer sig. Mangan DANCON-soldat er hjemsendt med minder om glade og fornøjelige aftener og nætter, som er endt godt, fordi en mere besindig kammerat har hjulpet ham det sidste stykke vej hjem.

Ikke alene straffenes antal vil falde, hvis man følger disse leveregler, men det vil ogsaa indebære, at størstedelen af det personel som skal hjemsendes med DANCON XI vil kunne se tilbage paa en god og fornøjelig tid

Det er endvidere lidt af en naturlov, at straffenes antal stiger og mod en rotationsperiode, og det vil maaske derfor være paa sin plads i dette blad og paa dette tidspunkt, at fremhæve tre enkelte leveregler, som - hvis de følges - vil kunne begrænse disse straffes antal ved DANCON.

paa Cypern, og at alt det personel som har søgt forlænget tjeneste paa DANCON XII vil opleve endnu et halvt aars begivenhedsrig tjeneste ved DANCON/UNFICYP. Hilsen fra ADJUDANTEN.

SALTSØEN VED LARNACA

... hvor saltet for øjeblikket "høstes".

Vandet i en saltsø kan kun forsvinde ved fordampning, hvorved saltet lades tilbage.

En af de søer der har mest saltindhold ligger i Tyrkiet. Den hedder Tuz Göl. Saltindholdet er her 30%.

Derefter følger "Det døde Hav", hvor saltindholdet er ca. 25%.

Virkningen mærkes naar man bader, som mange DANCON-soldater efterhaanden har gjort det. Det er umuligt at synke i en saltsø.

Kommer man til saltsøen ved Larnaca, er der ikke ret langt til den gamle muhammedanske helligdom TEKKE. Man kommer ind - hvis man lægger skoene.

1st Bn The Worcestershire Regiment Return To UK

On Saturday 25th October 1969 the last group of 1 WORC R will depart for the U.K., thus completing the rotation of the Battalion after 6 months service with UNFICYP.

The last week has seen many signs of rotation; packing cases ready for despatch, stores laid out for handover and members of the Battalion accompanied by their counterparts of 3 R ANGLIANS carrying out the routine checking of stores and accommodation that goes with rotation.

Since their arrival, the Worcesters have played a full part in all the activities of the UN Force. Their participation in the sporting activities has met with great success — highlights being winners of the UN Swimming and Athletic titles in one week.

In UNFICYP circles the Worcesters became well known. A factor contributing much to this was the Regimental Band and Corps of Drums who travelled many miles to take part in Ceremo-

An ingeniously designed jumble of nearly 3,000 individual parts, any one of which may be faulty, poses no problem for L Cpl Colin Ross of 644 Signal Troop.

With the aid of test instruments and thorough training he will have this teleprinter "back on circuit" in a very short time.

Local Brewery Visit

On Saturday 18 Oct 23 members of 644 Sig Troop departed from their normal activities and decended en masse to a local Brewery.

On arrival the party was split into two groups for the tour which was conducted by two foremen of the Brew House. Unfortunately, it being Saturday, the brewery was not in full production. However, the full process was clearly explained; taking into account the three and a half months needed to brew the beer from the initial stages until ready for consumption.

Secretary General's Message

On this twenty-fourth birthday of the United Nations, let us remember that the deep and urgent concerns which led us to create this Organization almost a generation ago are even more valid today. And let us match this realization with concerted international action in the days ahead.

Kunto kunnon kohottaa. Moni on havainnut pientä kivistystä vaatteissaan muutaman kuukauden saarella oltuaan. Jääkäri Mattila on yksi niistä, jotka eivät ole jääneet sormi suussa odottamaan kilojen karttumista. Hyvä idea. Suositellaan sitä kaikille muillekin.

holocaust. There have been times when, if the United Nations had not been here, a third world war would have been almost inevitable. The Organization has thus had a role in keeping the peace. This is despite the fact that one of the main assumptions on which the United Nations was originally based soon proved to be false. That assumption was the continuing harmony of the Great Powers. In overcoming poverty, too, the United Nations and its specialized agencies have made a contribution: modest though it may be it is surely the greatest multilateral endeavour of its sort in the world today. For human rights, the Organization has sought to keep some of the glaring violations before the eyes of the world, and to jog the conscience of mankind.

The United Nations declarations and conventions on human rights are today the core of world practice on this subject. Also the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples — a corner-stone of our Organization — has had a lasting impact on the winding up of the colonial system.

I therefore see no reason to abandon hope. The millenium could never be built in a day. Our Organization is not perfect because we are not perfect, but there exists in the noble purposes and principles of the Charter, and in the machinery of the United Nations, the way to strive for perfection. Perhaps it is that after 24 years there is some feeling of weariness that the world is not better, some sense that the old arguments and ideas are stale and unprofitable. However, our Organization is certainly capable of accommodating new ideas, new arguments. It is for us to strive to find those ideas and arguments. Our starting point should be that the fault lies in ourselves, not in the Organization. If we can move forward from this point I do not fear for the future.

Finally, on this United Nations Day, speaking as President of the General Assembly, and as a fellow human being, I cannot close my heart to the suffering of so many innocent victims of war. I make a special appeal for peace to the parties directly concerned in the troubled areas of the world, for it is not enough just to be "for peace". We must care, understand and persevere. I wish to state that I am at the disposal of the delegations concerned who are trying to arrange peace in various quarters of the world, if they feel that I can be of any assistance to them, and am ready to go anywhere in order to help and alleviate the sufferings of human beings. I have here also in mind the alleviation of sufferings of my African brethren who live almost across the frontier of my native land.

DRIVING ON SLIPPERY ROADS

On wet or icy roads your vehicle cannot be stopped as quickly as on dry roads.

When slowing or stopping, pump or apply the brakes quickly (but gently) and as quickly release them.

Keep repeating this on and off braking until you come to a full stop or the speed you desire.

Do not apply hard, steady brake pressure as this will lock the wheels and start you skidding.

On slippery road surfaces, take the following precautions: (1) drive at slower speeds; (2) keep a greater distance from the vehicle ahead; and (3) avoid all sudden driving acts — steering, braking, accelerating, or shifting to lower gears before vehicle speed is greatly reduced.
